Grand Targhee Resort to Host 2nd Annual “She Skis” Clinic

Back by popular demand, Grand Targhee Resort will host their second annual “She Skis” Alpine Edition Ski Clinic, January 26th thru 28th. This three-day/all women clinic offers five hours plus of daily instruction with emphasis on skiing powder, bumps and techniques in steeper terrain with video analysis each evening. In addition to instruction, the organizers hope to foster a friendly, supportive atmosphere by infusing this clinic with social as well as educational outlets. A morning yoga session and breakfast kick off each clinic day and closing festivities will bookend the three-day event. Clinic participants will also receive discounts on any Spa service. The clinic will be customized to suit every woman's schedule and pocketbook allowing each individual to choose one, two or three days of instruction, lift tickets or lodging with special rates offered to clinic participants. This clinic will focus on every skill level and features guest instructor Patti Kauf, former World Mogul Champ and X-Team silver medalist as well as Grand Targhee's most experienced women instructors. Participants can expect to improve their overall skiing skills with special focus on: off-piste conditions, conquering the bumps and finding comfort in the steps. In addition to on-mountain instruction, there will be special mini-clinics offered on: using the proper equipment, ski care and maintenance and skier safety. “This camp is designed to foster camaraderie over competition, with lots of emphasis on simply having fun,” says resort spokesperson Susie Barnett-Bushong. “Not only is this clinic an opportunity for women to improve their skills with the benefit of a female perspective, it's a chance to celebrate their shared passion for alpine skiing.”

Conditions couldn't be better for the event with a snow depth of over 75” at the resort's mid-mountain snow stake.
